Second Installment Delay; Opening and expanding Bridge Loan Program

From Cook County President's Office <mail@info.cookcountyil.gov>

Office of Cook County Board President

Dear Local Government Taxing District Partners,

I am writing to inform you that the issuance of second-installment property tax bills is expected to be delayed by approximately two months this year. While this is a step forward from last year, I recognize the challenges that delays in the property tax cycle can create.

To help address this anticipated cash-flow gap, Cook County plans to reopen and expand the Property Tax Bridge Fund Program, making up to $300 million in no-interest, short-term loans available to eligible taxing districts. This program is designed to provide temporary financial support while districts await their second-installment property tax distributions and to help ensure that critical services to residents continue uninterrupted.

We are announcing the program now so local governments have time to evaluate their needs, plan accordingly and understand the resources available before considering other financing options. Following anticipated approval by the Cook County Board in July, additional program guidance and application information will be released. We expect that the application process will open on July 20. Based on feedback from taxing districts and community partners, we also intend to expand eligibility to better support institutions that rely heavily on property tax revenue.

This Bridge Fund represents immediate assistance, but it is not a substitute for the long-term reforms our property tax system requires. Cook County remains committed to working with our partners across government to modernize a fragmented system, improve coordination and transparency, and build a more reliable property tax process for taxpayers and taxing districts alike.

Thank you for your continued partnership and your commitment to serving residents throughout Cook County. Below are the eligibility requirements.

- 50% Reliance on Property Taxes: Only local taxing jurisdictions (LTJ) that are reliant on property taxes for 50% or more of their total Governmental revenues (excluding enterprise funds) are eligible
- Disinvested Communities that do not meet the first criteria will be offered additional consideration. The County will approve those loans according to availability and need on a rolling basis using the County's Equitable Allocation Model
- Suburban Cook County: Only local taxing jurisdictions wholly within Suburban Cook County are eligible for the loans
- Paper Districts are Excluded: All local taxing jurisdictions that pass-through property tax collections to a third party for the provision of services are ineligible.

We will continue to provide updates as additional information becomes available.

Sincerely,

Toni Preckwinkle

President, Cook County Board of Commissioners

Late Cook County property tax distributions spell trouble for libraries

By A.D. QUIG | aquig@chicagotribune.com | Chicago Tribune

PUBLISHED: February 9, 2026 at 5:00 AM CST

Village library leaders have added their voices to the chorus of complaints about delayed and sporadic distributions of Cook County property tax revenues, saying the situation has drained their reserves, making it harder to hire or buy new books.

And in the latest complication in Cook County's ongoing property tax woes, about $175 million in excess money was sent to taxing bodies that weren't expecting it.

Echoing problems first publicly raised by suburban school district leaders, a subset of public library directors reported they have had to go into "ongoing financial triage" because property tax receipts that typically land in their bank accounts in the summer were months late.

Libraries received the bulk of their expected dollars last week and are expected to be made entirely whole this week. But in a memo shared with the Tribune, a group of library leaders said in recent months they've had to put off payments to vendors, paused new hires and canceled or scaled back public programs.

The impact on libraries is another wrinkle in the long-delayed upgrade of the county's internal property tax systems with contractor Tyler Technologies. Though taxpayers settled their bills between mid-November and December, it has taken extra time to get those dollars into the bank accounts of cities, park districts, schools and libraries.

Village library districts have teamed up to note they've waited even longer for significant funds to flow compared with their city or school district counterparts. Because they are considered "sub-agencies" whose levies are approved by municipal boards, they didn't receive stopgap emergency funding from Cook County Treasurer Maria Pappas' office back in December.

Under normal circumstances, all of the county's 2,000 taxing bodies would have gotten their money through August and September, but bills were sent late thanks to a series of setbacks in the decadelong tech overhaul. Unlike other years when bills were delayed, taxing bodies complained they were often left in the dark about when it would be resolved.

Those timelines were often an open question to county officials that have been working overtime to finish the decadelong property tax upgrade. The county hired emerging government tech behemoth Tyler Technologies in 2015 to get the county off its rickety and outdated mainframe computer system and onto a unified platform for tax offices.

Completion has taken more than twice as long as initially anticipated as the project repeatedly missed deadlines, triggering rising costs, frustration and blame among elected officials and company leaders.

Two of the final few hurdles — calculating and mailing tax bills and distributing that revenue back to government agencies — have been politically thorny.

All along, library leaders said they relied on word of mouth or forwarded messages from other local officials to understand when and how much money might come through. Without a definite schedule and with emerging cash flow trouble, some libraries tapped rainy day-funds or cashed out investments earlier than they planned, explored short-term borrowing or considered contingency deals with their cities, towns or villages.

Many school districts previously told the Tribune they did the same, estimating the downstream cost of the delay totaled nearly $122 million.

The treasurer announced distribution dates in mass communications to taxing agencies twice last month, but noted they were not a guarantee.

In a typical cycle, money would start flowing to agencies a couple of weeks after bills were paid. For this year, that would have been around the start of December. But libraries reported money didn't start flowing to them in earnest until mid-January.

Amy Franco, the executive director of Hillside Public Library, reached out to other directors to see if they were similarly in the dark. She heard back throughout January that others were weeks or even days away from running out of cash. While most other taxing districts had received about 87% of their due taxes near the end of last month, Hillside had gotten just 10%.

"Libraries are used to planning for delays, we're resilient, we tell ourselves this all the time, but the resilience only goes so far without clear information," Franco said. As of Friday, 97% of distributions were out the door, county officials said. "I'm really relieved some of this money has started to move, but I have pretty serious concerns about how close a lot of these libraries came to crisis and how easily it could happen again."

In recent weeks, “we stopped ordering books and materials,” Jamie Paicely, the Flossmoor Public Library director, told the Tribune. “I don’t want to cut hours, I don’t want to cut services, I don’t want to cut staff, we’ll cut what we can to stop the outflow until we get something coming in. It was very hard to kind of operate, because deep down you know the money is going to come in. The county has the money, it’s going to come to us, but it was that lack of communication that made it hard to do my job.”

Forest Park Public Library Director Vicki Rakowski said they had to tap their six month reserves, restarting efforts to save for big capital expenditures like a new roof and HVAC system. “For many of us, we were absolutely approaching a crisis point in that we were going to have to find a way to keep on going, either through short-term loans or reducing services. That’s just something that was unthinkable to me a couple of months ago.”

Payments came in fits and spurts, according to districts surveyed by library directors in Hillside and Mount Prospect.

Of the roughly $750,000 that Midlothian Public Library levied in taxes this year, they reported receiving about $100 on Jan. 14, $161 on the 20th, then seven payments totaling around $96,000 on the 21st. Another $37,500 came in on Jan 23. As of Jan. 30, according to the Cook County treasurer’s office, 90% of the Midlothian library levy had been distributed.

Distributions regularly fall short of levies, since not everyone pays their property taxes, and some pay late. It’s also common for distributions to be staggered and of varying sizes because distributions are made on a rolling basis as bills are paid, the treasurer’s office said.

But the timing and amounts were more unpredictable than usual this cycle, leaders told the Tribune. It was made more confusing because another key document districts rely on, distribution reports, have also been held up during the upgrade. Instead, leaders have added up bank deposit figures to keep track of what they’ve brought in.

“Nothing in life goes perfectly. I’ve been part of software or process upgrades that blew up in our faces, this is much higher stakes than any of us could fathom, the county has so many irons in the fire it’d make our heads spin, but communication goes a long way,” Rakowski said. “I have a lot of sympathy for how frustrating and difficult this must have been, but a sincere apology and a plan can solve almost anything.”

The problems have inflamed tensions among county leaders and become an issue in Cook County Board President Toni Preckwinkle’s bid for a fifth term. Her challenger, Chicago Ald. Brendan Reilly, said he would conduct a full review of the Tyler contract and recently released a campaign ad highlighting problems with it.

“We understand the frustration libraries are experiencing, and we take those concerns seriously,” Preckwinkle spokeswoman Cara Yi said in a Feb. 6 email. “While the Treasurer’s Office normally handles the communication with taxing districts, the president’s office, through the Property Tax Reform Group, has committed to improving communication with taxing districts on the overall tax bill schedule going forward.”

Meanwhile, some of the calculations have had errors that have actually left libraries with more money than they are supposed to get. Palos Heights' Library District received $1.76 million, equal to 158% of their levy request. The treasurer's office was not aware of the discrepancy until contacted by the Tribune last week.

"The overpayment was caused by a calculation error in the Tyler Technologies system. Tyler is now working to ensure that type of error does not re-occur," Pappas spokesman Michael Puccinelli told the Tribune in an email.

"As of Friday morning, we still had not received enough information to determine precisely how many agencies were overpaid, but we do know the number tops 50," Puccinelli said.

In an email, Tyler's media team said the error amounted to "approximately 1% of the total distribution for 2024." Based on estimates from the treasurer, that equals about $174 million.

"As soon as we became aware (Wednesday), we worked closely with the treasurer's office and already have resolutions in some areas. The anomaly in the system has been corrected and updates provided to the client," Tyler's statement said.

Rather than clawing back overpayments, the treasurer will instead "adjust the amount distributed to that city from first-installment collections to rectify the overpayment," which is a common practice, Puccinelli said.

The office said there was sufficient cash in county coffers to float that overpayment until April, when the next round of property tax bills are due. Preckwinkle has expressed confidence that there will not be any delays for bills due April 1.

Tyler is also working to create distribution reports "in the next few weeks," Puccinelli said.

“The reporting functions that the taxing districts are requesting will actually be an enhanced feature in the new technology,” Yi said. “That’s another reason why the technology upgrade is important. Once the system is fully modernized, we can provide taxing districts with greater accountability and real time reports.”

Cook County Treasurer Maria Pappas held stock in company that has county technology deal

By A.D. QUIG | aquig@chicagotribune.com | Chicago Tribune

PUBLISHED: February 12, 2026 at 3:52 PM CST | UPDATED: February 13, 2026 at 6:25 AM CST

Cook County Treasurer Maria Pappas held stock for years in a company with a major contract working in her office, a potential violation of the county's conflict-of-interest rules.

Pappas has been one of the most vociferous critics of Tyler Technologies, the company that has been in charge of the rocky upgrade of the county's property tax system, for more than a decade. Tyler has been embedded in the treasurer's office, which calculates and mails out property tax bills, for years.

The problematic rollout of Tyler's tax system revamp within county offices led to late property tax bills last year and problems distributing property tax revenues in recent months to local agencies like schools and libraries.

But while she was hammering Tyler, Pappas owned stock in the company. Pappas' office shared statements from her broker that show 10 Tyler shares were purchased in 2020, and four more in 2022. Together, they cost $4,562. Tyler first received the county contract in 2015.

Pappas said she was not aware of the investment, which was made by a former broker, and sold them in March of 2024. And following a Tribune inquiry, she also sold stock for other companies doing business with the county, including the bank providing lockbox and collection services for the treasurer, her office said.

Those investments were some of the 30 to 40 assets, including individual stocks and exchange-traded funds, that Pappas disclosed in annual statements of economic interest between 2021 and 2024. Under state law, officials are required to disclose those worth more than $10,000.

Even though the holdings were less than $10,000, Pappas' office said she reported them anyway "in the interest of transparency," but suggested she did not review them closely.

"When she realized they were in her portfolio, she instructed her new broker to sell the shares immediately," spokesman Michael Puccinelli said of the Tyler stock in an emailed statement. She submitted her economic interest statements without noticing Tyler on the list, he said, and when she did, she asked her new broker to sell.

After the Tribune asked this week about the Tyler stock or other holdings that potentially represented a conflict, Pappas sold stakes in Microsoft, CDW and JP Morgan, according to her office. JP Morgan has a contract with the treasurer's office to allow taxpayers to pay property taxes at Chase Bank locations, process fees and fines, and make online payments and remote deposits.

CDW provides IT infrastructure equipment countywide, and the county broadly uses Microsoft for its operating system.

Puccinelli said Pappas didn't realize she held the stock from the other county contractors until the Tribune asked about additional potential conflicts. All the stocks Pappas held were for amounts below the $10,000 disclosure threshold, but she disclosed them anyway, according to Puccinelli.

"It was a mistake and a learning experience. She should've been aware of this and wasn't," the statement from Pappas' office said.

The county's ethics ordinance states no county official can use their position "to influence any County governmental decision or action" if that person "knows, has reason to know, or should know" that they or a relative has "any economic interest in such action or decision."

Pappas didn't have direct hiring or firing power over Tyler. The project was overseen by the Bureau of Technology under Cook County Board President Toni Preckwinkle's office. But Pappas and other county officials whose offices dealt directly with the property tax system were consulted on contract extensions, and were in charge of executing Tyler changes in their offices.

The threshold for what “interest” means in the county’s ethics ordinance “is confusingly written,” Alisa Kaplan of the watchdog group Reform for Illinois said in an email. The ordinance seems to use financial and economic interest interchangeably. While “economic interest” includes anything of value in monetary terms, financial interest is more specific, including something in which the owner “currently received or is entitled to receive in the future more than $1,200 per year” or “with a cost or present value of $5,000 or more.”

The Tyler sale yielded $5,865 for a net profit of $1,303.

“It appears that Pappas would only be violating the law if she were making official decisions about Tyler while her interest in the company was worth $5,000 or more. It’s not clear that that ever happened. If it did — if the value of her Tyler stock rose to over $5,000 at some point while she was participating in decision making about the company — we’re talking about a pretty small number above the threshold here,” Kaplan wrote, suggesting the ordinance needed clarifying.

Juliet Sorensen, a former member of the county’s Board of Ethics and the director of the Rule of Law Institute at Loyola University, said even if her broker managed her investments day to day, Pappas reasonably should have known what she held, given her position and the annual requirement to report holdings.

The $5,000 and $10,000 discrepancy could have been a source of confusion, Sorensen said, but she could have asked the ethics board for advice, including about whether she was required to disclose those potential conflicts to them.

“What is the treasurer’s office in the business of?” Sorensen said. “Should she know the county does business with JP Morgan? I think so.”

A spokesperson for Tyler said they were not aware of Pappas’ holdings and “do not have access to ownership held by individuals.”

At the time of the first purchase in March of 2020, Tyler had just hit a major milestone: $1 billion in revenue. The stock price was about $277.

By that time, Pappas had been railing against the company for months, saying in a November 2019 letter it had blown deadlines, cycled through project managers and driven up ancillary costs. She concluded “it is long past time to cancel the contract with Tyler Technologies, possibly the worst technology contract with a vendor that Cook County has ever written.”

Just before the second stock purchase in January 2022, Pappas had written to Tyler's CEO to chastise the company for being "four years late" on its work in her office and express her skepticism that any of its future timeline goals would be met. By then, the stock price was up to $470.

Just after the third stock purchase in May of 2022 — a single share for $376 — the county extended Tyler's contract with new guardrails tying payment to goals being met. Pappas had written to Preckwinkle opposing its passage, saying it "would be throwing good money after bad and should be rejected."

Top Tyler leaders haven't been thrilled with Pappas either, replying to her letters by defending their work and characterizing her correspondence as counterproductive and at times, misleading or hyperbolic.

Pappas is running for reelection as county treasurer, a post she's held since 1998. She has no challengers in the March 17 Democratic primary, and has floated running for mayor in the 2027 election.

G. Library Director's Report

Birmingham attended the Borse Park Grand Re-Opening on May 14 and the park is phenomenal. Krupicka noted that the Volunteer Tea the library hosted on May 1 was a wonderful event. Palmisano said that the newsletter looks great. Birmingham noted that we are looking at changing what we currently do with the newsletter – our marketing department is exploring scenarios, and the Finance Committee will discuss at their June 9th meeting.

H. Department Reports

- I. Staff Report – Jeanine Clinton, Resource Services Librarian/Technical Services Supervisor and Jordan Calabrese, Youth and Teen Resource Services Librarian spoke about the AISLE Awards. Every year AISLE (Association of Illinois School Library Educators) hosts readers' choice awards for students in grades K-12. The four reading levels are: Monarch Award is K-3rd grade, Bluestem Award is 3-5th grade, Rebecca Caudill Award is 4-8th grade, Lincoln Award is 9-12th grade. A committee of librarians, teachers, and high school students nominate twenty books for each of the four levels. Students get to vote to choose the best books in their level. IPPL hosts its own reading challenge – read all 20 books from the list for one of the age groups and get a free book. Calabrese explained the process for ordering the titles. We try to have five copies of each title available. Other formats include large type, Spanish, Read-Along, CD, Playaway, eBook, and eAudiobook. The titles also get added to our mid-kid and teen e-readers. Clinton explained the technical side including acquiring, receiving, and processing the titles. Krupicka commented that it's wonderful we have the titles in various formats. The Board thanked Calabrese and Clinton for the great job they do every year with the process.

J. Reports

1. Treasurer's Report – backup in packet.
2. LACONI Trustee Dinner – Rodriguez and Palmisano attended the dinner. They engaged with directors and trustees from other libraries and found the interactions very valuable.
3. Building and Grounds Committee – Krupicka reported that the committee met on 5/13. They discussed replacing the paper towel dispensers with hand dryers for the cost savings and to alleviate clogged plumbing issues. The committee walked the grounds and found that things looked very good aside from a few dead plants which Lawson will discuss with the landscaping company.
4. Building and Grounds Committee Minutes, 5/13/26 – Krupicka moved, Palmisano seconded to approve the Building and Grounds Committee Minutes 5/13/26. Ayes: Damon, Krupicka, Palmisano, Raftis, Rodriguez, Wahab. Nays: none. Absent: Suriano. Motion carried unanimously.

ORDINANCE #2026-2

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING A REGULAR MEETING DATE
FOR THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE
INDIAN PRAIRIE PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT

Section 1: Regular Meeting - Regular meetings of the Board of Trustees for the months of July, 2026 through June, 2027 shall be held on the third Wednesday of each month at 6:30 p.m. at the Indian Prairie Public Library, 401 Plainfield Road, Darien, Illinois.

The exact dates are:

- July 15, 2026
- August 19, 2026
- September 16, 2026
- October 21, 2026
- November 18, 2026
- December 16, 2026
- January 20, 2027
- February 17, 2027
- March 17, 2027
- April 21, 2027
- May 19, 2027
- June 16, 2027

Section 2: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and approval.

Passed and approved this 17th day of June, 2026.

Victoria Suriano, President

ATTEST:

Stacy Palmisano, Secretary

DETERMINATION TO DISPOSE OF PROPERTY

The Indian Prairie Library Board of Trustees has determined to dispose of the following unused equipment no longer usable by the district.

- Silver Reed Knitting Machine
- Old Dell server
- Old DW Cube security camera server
- 1 large format printer
- 11 desktop computers
- 3 laptops
- 1 all-in-one computer
- 4 monitors
- 1 camera doorbell
- 1 tablet computer
- 3 barcode scanners
- 2 laptop docks
- Miscellaneous keyboards, mice, power supplies, and cables.

The equipment will be either reused at a different library, recycled, or disposed of properly.

Note: This may include donating the knitting machine to a local nonprofit organization, as its value is less than $1000, if no other libraries take it. We have tried unsuccessfully three times to find another library who wants the machine.

Executive Director's Report: May 2026

Packet Highlights:

You will see in the Communications and Announcements a letter from Cook County stating that tax disbursements will be late again this year. The system is still a mess as we have not received all of our money from last tax year. Fortunately, taxes from Cook County are a very small portion of our revenue, but I am monitoring this situation and hope that it gets resolved soon. I have included two articles from the Chicago Tribune about this issue.

Jamie Allard, Administrative Specialist and Art Gallery Curator, is giving this month's staff report. She will give an overview of the work she does to manage the rotating library gallery and the artists, as well as the work she does with community groups and organizations.

I will give an overview of a new newsletter plan under New Business.

The finance committee met on June 9th and made only minor changes to the FY26-27 budget. It is in the packet for approval.

Finance Committee:

It was suggested that we add renovation costs to the Financial Forecast in 15 years (2041). I will research costs to work with an architect on space planning and design and then update the forecast.

In reviewing the insurance costs at the committee meeting, Christina suggested that we check the property insurance policy has not changed and that the library would still be eligible to make a claim if we were to have storm damage on our roof again. Our insurance agent said that our eligibility has not changed but the deductible for such a claim is going up from $5,000 to $10,000. So, if this were to happen, I would have the $10,000 in contingency money to cover the deductible.

The new Salary Schedule includes a 2% cost of living increase which helps our salaries stay competitive with other area libraries.

I have also created a new spreadsheet, as requested by the Finance committee, which includes what we have actually spent through May 30th next to the proposed budget for FY26-27. It is attached to my report.

Community Connections:

The library is participating in the nationwide reading of the Declaration of Independence on July 8 at 5:00p.m. (The Declaration of Independence was signed on July 8, 1776.) I have invited members of the Darien VFW Post 2838 to help us kick off the event by leading us in the Pledge of Allegiance at 4:30 p.m. All attendees will be given copies of the Declaration in order to read it out loud together.

Legislative Happenings:

There is proposed legislation (IL House Bill 5241) that provides that if Cook County is delinquent in distributing tax disbursements from property taxes, Cook County would have to reimburse the taxing districts for the interest that they would have earned on the distribution. It is in committee.

Niki Conforti, who is running for U.S. 6th Congressional District, is using the Keshav Sanghani Meeting Room on Wednesday, June 17th for a campaign meet and greet.

IPPL Foundation & Friends:

- Book Sale $201
- Vehicle Stickers $6
- Movie donations $30

Deputy Director's Report: May 2026

Building & Grounds:

We are close to having the required number of quotes for the electrical and alarm work that will be needed to be done in tandem with the elevator replacement project. Once all the quotes are in, I will review them and check with Colley Elevator and Justin Pathmann of ReThink to make sure they all cover the entire scope of each project and they're otherwise comparable, and then we will move forward with the most competitive quotes.

The plant replacements, dead wood trimming, and river stone additions to reduce erosion on the east side of the building are all scheduled to be completed on Friday, June 12, weather permitting.

Additionally, Joe closed 35 building tickets in May. Highlights include: 1) Helped Tony unmount and remount our Chromeboxes behind the display TVs so updates could be made, 2) Ran new cable to wall-mounted phones so they could connect to our new system, and 3) Took apart and re-assembled self-check machine mounts so the barcode scanners could be replaced.

Staff Training:

In May I conducted Person-in-Charge training on Person-in Charge procedures and guidelines.

Meetings:

- Department Head meetings, 5/14 & 5/28
- Library Board meeting, 5/20
- Regular check-in meetings with Joe, twice/week (ongoing)
- Regular check-in meetings with Tony, once/week (ongoing)

Technology Highlights:

MFA implementation for staff email was slightly delayed due to some staff being out on vacation and not able to set themselves up to receive MFA codes. The full configuration went live on May 28, with no interruption to operations.

The new phone system implementation is complete on the Nextiva side. The new phones were configured and deployed on May 19, with no interruption in service.

Finally, we received notice on 6/12 that we were awarded a library security grant that I wrote from the State of Illinois for $9,000 to support a network penetration test for IPPL's network. This will help us gauge the effectiveness of all the cybersecurity improvements we have been making over the past few years, and see if there is more that should be done to protect our network.

Additionally, Tony closed 39 tech tickets in May. Highlights include: 1) Coordinated a laptop repair with Dell for a staff laptop micro SD card slot issue, 2) Replaced a bad monitor at the card catalog search computer by the Tech Desk, and 3) Replaced a staff computer that had been freezing up with a new machine.

Notable Projects/Meetings/Workshops

Fernanda was on vacation last week of May.

Worked on next year's budget.

Met with Gail regarding upcoming projects.

Met with Amy about programming.

Met with Sharon about Maker Studio needs.

Had regular 1-1 meetings with Laura.

Had regular 1-1 meetings with Fernanda.

Fernanda and I attended the second part of a marketing workshop hosted by ILA in Schaumburg.

Fernanda and I attended several workshops on accessibility.

Worked with designer on potential branding for a storywalk.

Worked with designer to rebrand shelf talkers to new color pallet of the library.

Worked on moving shelf talker templates to Canva.

Starting moving other templates for shelving from Publisher to Canva.

Created other signs as requested by the P & O team, Resource Services, and Kristen.

Summer Reading

May is among the busiest time for Summer Reading preparation for marketing.

Logs were sent to the printer; thanks to Jamie for picking them up at Staples.

Mission Math packets sent to the printer.

Picked up the yard signs and banners. Thanks to Amy and her team for putting yard signs in the local parks.

Created and printed all the signs for the library.

Put together the second-floor display cases. Thank you to Jordan for the loan of the books.

Took photos with Amy of all the prizes.

Ordered additional fliers for the schools—Amy, Laura W., and Erin really did an amazing job of reaching out to the schools to distribute these fliers.

Created June summer reading emails.

Print Newsletter

The newsletter went to the post offices in mid-May.

Outreach

Fernanda pulled together promotional items for several community events.

Fernanda pulled together promotional items and fliers for a small outreach event at Hinsdale South.

Website

Did minor updates to the site as requested by Laura, Kristen, Gail, Cindy, Jordan, Joe, and Sharon.

Updated the home page to reflect on the current happenings in the library.

Note: As we update pages, we continually make sure we meet accessibility standards. Even though the deadline was extended, we are still improving our pages.

Guest Services May 2026

Circulation

The total checkouts and renewals for May were 49,183

71% of our checkouts and renewals were done by self-service; 25% renewals were done at the desk; 4% were done at the drive-up.

The library had 18,779 in-person visitors; 545 patrons used the drive-up.

1,881 items were checked out at the drive-up and 1,004 holds were placed for pickup at the drive-up.

Passports: Staff accepted 78 passports.

License plate sticker renewals: Staff sold 35 License plate stickers.

Library Cards: 214 new cards were issued: 135 resident and 79 non-resident. 38 were initiated remotely.

Total number of IPPL Library cards: 25,793

Birthday gift: Staff handed out 24 birthday gifts.

New phone system: Guest Services staff answer incoming calls and voicemails left at the main phone number, so it's a big part of our job. I also manage the emergency/holiday/closing messages on the phone system. This was the first time using the new system to set the holiday message for Memorial Day and it was so simple to change with just one "click", much easier than the old system. The Nextiva app is excellent and it has improved my ability to see the phone calls that are coming in to Guest Services and better communicate with staff and guests.

- 5/27: Presentation to 400 students at Prairieview School by Laura Warner

A total of 7 teen and young adult volunteers generously volunteered 12 hours of time at the library this month.

Eighty-seven packets were taken for use by guests from the 2nd floor Seed Library, which is sponsored by the Darien Garden Club and maintained by Betty Cornfield, Associate.

Programming Highlights

In May, we had 62 programs attended by 4,330 guests. This programming number represents in-library programs (including passive programming) and outreach programming that includes an activity or presentation.

On May 5, Kate Kresek debuted the first Adult Field Trip program with a group of IPPL adults meeting at Waterfall Glen Forest Preserve to enjoy a ranger-led hike. A little rain did not deter the 16 eager participants. Be on the lookout for future Adult Field Trips!

All IPPL community members were invited to help plant the raised beds in Keshav's Garden on May 19 with 28 guests attending to complete the planting of the beds with Amy Merda and Margie Martinson, then coming inside IPPL to enjoy creating a nature button in the Maker Studio with Linda Montes.

Staff accomplishments

Sharon

- Met with Kristen and Joe multiple times to discuss and plan Technology and Maker workroom refresh.
- Met with Jill to discuss Maker Studio maintenance and training closure starting June 22 for one week.
- Focused on program training for Lucas on fall newsletter, copy submission and LibCal entries.
- Conducted three interviews for the Technology and Maker Studio Specialist positions.
- Hired Claire Knabenshue as a Technology and Maker Studio Specialist. Claire's start date is Monday, June 8.
- Held a monthly staff meeting with a focus on the power of setting boundaries and using diplomatic NOs at the Technology Desk and in the Maker Studio. Example: Instead of saying, "No, that is something we don't do" instead say, "That is not a service we provide."

Linda

- Led a button making drop-in for the P&O Garden Planting Party.
- Created an origami Chinese thread box for display.
- Experimented with creating cards of different shapes, including a book and the Summer Reading logo.

Lucas

- Finalized the design for the metal stamping system to be used in the Maker Studio with customized 3D printed inserts and jigs

Indian Prairie Public Library District
Finance Committee Minutes
June 9, 2026 – 6:30 p.m.

Present: Raftis, Rodriguez, Damon, Krupicka, Suriano (by phone), Birmingham

Raftis called the meeting to order at 6:31 p.m.

Birmingham gave an overview of a new newsletter plan with a comparison of the current plan. The committee agreed to try a new newsletter mailing plan which gives the library $31,000 in savings.

The committee reviewed the draft of the 26-27 budget.

Rodriguez asked about health care benefit costs and Birmingham explained that the rate we have now with United Health Care skews last year's budget numbers, but she will update the spreadsheet to make this more clear.

Raftis asked about e-book budget lines and why they were so high and Birmingham explained that this is because two budget lines were combined into one, but there was not actually a large increase.

The committee reviewed the Financial Forecast. Krupicka suggested adding a renovation to the capital expenses in 10 or 15 years from now. Birmingham also suggested adding a space planning line in the budget so that we would work with an architect to help us to determine renovation needs.

The committee reviewed the FY26-27 Salary Schedule. Birmingham reported that the schedule reflects a 2% cost of living increase, which is comparable to other local libraries.

The meeting adjourned at 8:01 p.m.

- Speak only to the topic at hand.
- No side conversations.
- When an idea has been stated previously and you agree, only speak when you have something new to add.
- Everyone gets a chance to share their opinion before someone speaks again.
- Speaking briefly and staying focused is everyone's responsibility. This will make the meeting run smoothly.
- Respond to people in a non-dismissive, respectful manner.
- Insure everyone has an equal voice.
- These are everybody's rules and everyone is responsible for seeing that they are followed.
